

Child Marriage Poses Serious Risks to Children

- Women who marry before age 19 have a 23% greater risk of developing a serious health condition (diabetes, cancer, heart attack, or stroke).1
- Teen girls who marry tend to have more children, earlier, and more closely spaced.<sup>2</sup> They are:
  - » Much more (130%) likely to get pregnant than unmarried teens who live with a partner<sup>3</sup>
  - » More likely to have their first child before age 184
  - » 40% more likely to have a second birth within 24 months of their first5
  - » Nearly 3x more likely to have at least 5 children<sup>6</sup>
- Young women and girls aged 16-19 face intimate partner violence victimization rates almost 3x the national average.<sup>7</sup>
- Overall, women who marry as children are more likely to seek and access health services, compared to women who married in adulthood.8

ECONOMIC IMPACT

- Child brides tend to come from poverty and remain in poverty.9
  - » Girls who marry underage are up to 31 percentage points more likely to live in future poverty. 10
  - » For teen mothers, getting married and later divorcing can more than double the likelihood of poverty. 11
- Earning potential and work opportunities are limited by interrupted education and low education levels. Girls who marry under age 19 are:
  - » 50% more likely to drop out of high school
  - » 4x less likely to graduate college<sup>12</sup>

- Child brides tend to be isolated from support networks including school, friends, and family.
- The majority (70-80%) of marriages entered into when at least one person is under age 18 ultimately end in divorce.13
  - » According to one study based on census data, 23% of children who marry are already separated or divorced by the time they turn 1814
- These negative outcomes, combined with the economic impacts of child marriage which limit a woman's ability to become financially independent, increase vulnerability to multiple victimization and often result in consequences becoming cyclical and intergenerational.

- Women who marry before age 18 are more likely to report stressful life events, and to present with significantly more psychiatric disorders, such as:
  - mood and anxiety disorders including major depressive
  - » antisocial personality disorder (prevalence nearly 3x higher)15
- Social isolation and feeling a lack of control over their lives can contribute to a child bride's poor mental health. In fact, agencies working with girls facing or trying to escape forced marriages report that nearly all have contemplated or attempted suicide.16
